

WINTEC HOT HOUSE

With a line-up of artists who have toured internationally, Wintec Hot House is going to be the place to be! Join us for a night of free entertainment on the Rhododendron Lawn.

Matthew Bannister - Local resident Matthew Bannister has been a performer and songwriter in many bands throughout his 30-year career, including Sneaky Feelings, the Dribbling Darts of Love, the Mutton Birds and the Weather. At Wintec Hot House, Matthew, his band, and a ten-piece string section, will play selections from Evolver, a re-interpretation of the Beatles' 1966 album Revolver, plus some originals.

The Mamaku Project was founded by two Kiwi-French musicians. Together they strive to realise their vision of creating music that can bridge their two cultures. The Mamaku Project blends the beautiful voice of the bi-lingual Tui Mamaki and the talents of multi-instrumentalist, Monsieur E., creating a beautiful and unforgettable mix of South Pacific and European root sounds.

dDub - dDub formed in 2004, and have since toured New Zealand and Australia a number of times, constantly engaging and connecting with their audiences. This is why they have become a crowd favourite both in New Zealand and off-shore. Engaging and uplifting, a dDub performance sees the group make their way seamlessly through a powerful and non-stop rock-roots-reggae explosion.
