

A night out meeting the artists

A one-night-only arts event in Frankton recently gave people a rare opportunity to see contemporary, collaborative artworks in the process of being created. Simply titled Frankton, the exhibition in the Skinroom Gallery on Commerce St was devised by Wintec School of Media Arts tutor Joe Citizen as an opportunity to meet artists “in the process of making and doing”. Mark Taylor popped in to have a look.

Ruth Hickman works on some window art.

Megan Williams and Natasha Lester engrossed in a piece of art.

Gaye Jurisich works away on her wall painting while an interested visitor looks on.

Georgia Ransfield and Juliann Smith chat about the work that is being exhibited in the Skinroom Gallery.

Dan Reese and Oliver Stewart check out the works that are on display in the exhibition.
